In the compilation of this bibliography of the publications written on the subject of evolution and the prehistoric species of mankind of the Old World, there are many errors bound to appear. For the most part, the undersigned declines to accept the responsibility for the occurrence of these errors, tending rather to point out the rather poor way in which authors' own bibliographies are handled. But you might wish to make the following additions or corrections to your copy of the bibliography. (Please keep me informed of any future change of address, if you wish to receive Part III of the bibliography, as well as occasional future appendices.)
